

RUDY'S BODY GUARDED FROM MOBS AS CORTEGE STARTS FOR HOLLYWOOD

Army of Police Line Broadway; Autopsy Is Off

Every precaution to prevent a recurrence of the riots which marked a city's eagerness to view his body will be taken late today when the remains of Rudolph Valentino are started for Hollywood—scene of his first triumph and his last resting place.

All available policemen are to be pressed into service to keep lanes of traffic, both vehicular and pedestrian, open and to stifle any possible disorder.

Promptly at 4 p. m. the cortege is to pass down Broadway to 44th Street, then east to the Grand Central station. It will consist of a hearse containing the silver-bronze casket, two autos filled with pallbearers and another machine devoted to a small party of mourners.

Swarm of Bluecoats

The Grand Central will be swarming with armed bluecoats who are to see to it that the casket is placed aboard a special car of the Lake Shore Limited without delay.

Two cars are to make up the railroad cortege. In one, amid the mountains of flowers sent by admiring friends, all that is mortal of the great screen star will lie. The other will be occupied by those who are making the trip westward with their idol.

This party is to consist of Pola Negri, who says she was engaged to marry the screen sheik; Alberto Guglielmo, Valentino's brother; S. George Ullman, manager of the dead actor; Mrs. Ullman and James R. Quirk, an intimate friend of the film star.

Chicago First Stop

The train is scheduled to leave at 6.30 p. m. The first stop is to be Chicago, where acquaintances of Valentino will be permitted to place a wreath on his casket. It is considered doubtful that the body will lie in state in Hollywood.

Pressure of business confronting Alberto Guglielmo, who reached New York last night on the White Star liner Homer, made it impossible for him to find time to attend a mass which was scheduled today in the actors' church. As a result the service was abandoned.

For the second time since landing on American soil Alberto was visited today by a delegation of prominent Italians who pleaded with him to demand an autopsy to determine the cause of his brother's death.

A similar committee with the same request was waiting for him last night at the dock. Both bodies expressed dissatisfaction with the medical reports ascribing peritonitis as the cause of death.

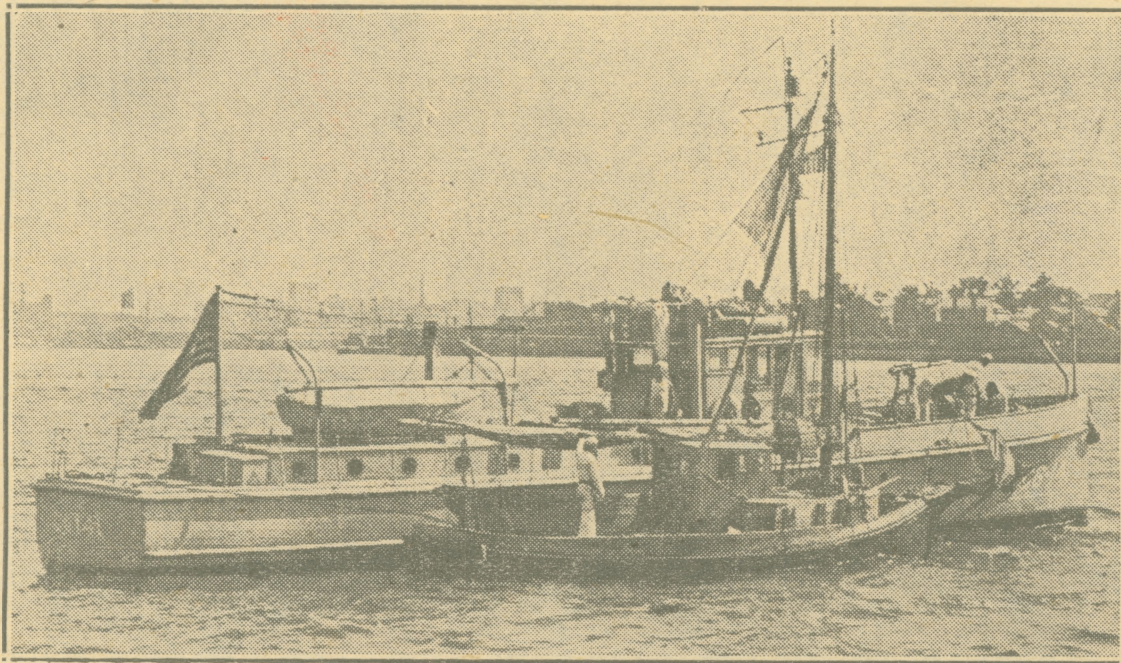

"I am very tired," Alberto said last night. "I do not care to talk now."

Today he listened attentively in his Hotel Ambassador suite while the second delegation tried to persuade him that he ought to obtain more definite information concerning the circumstances under which his brother died.

"No," he said at the conclusion
